As I rushed quickly up the stairs to tell my husband Ivan about my pregnancy I called out his name, "Ivan!!! Ivan!!! Until I barged into my room to see my husband Ivan cheating on me, with my friend Hailey Elizabeth Clinton. I quickly rushed out the room while Ivan panicky followed me outside the door. I was so ashamed I married a low life cheater. I could hear my named being called out of that horrid mouth.

Garci! Garci! Comeback Ivan exclaimed as I chased after her I saw her stop in the living room were all our wedding photos hung. I could see my wife sobbing pitifully on our striped carpet. My face was burning with shame, my wife Garci caught me in a sinful act with her friend. Then, she turned around so fast, face wet with salty tears and stated," Ivan I'm pregnant and it's a boy." She then claimed, "I already named him Neil." I caught a glimpse of a Toyota outside. It was Tiffany Lunar, Garci's older sister. Tiffany entered the house. Garci explained everything to her leaving no details out.

I ran into the living room out of breath, Ivan trailing behind me coming to a halt. My heart stopped for a second, I faced Ivan my hatred bubbled up. Every each minute felt like an hour, then I spoke and muttered," Ivan I'm pregnant." Finally, I stated, "I want an abortion, I don't want a despicable man's baby. My ex-husband Ivan then replied, "If you don't want him I won't take care of Neil either, I'll keep Hailey's baby thought." My sister tiffany Lunar was sad, then that sadness turned into anger and she snapped, "I will keep baby Neil and raise him." Ivan and I didn't care anymore and when the time came I had baby Neil and watched as Tiffany took him away to raise him.

The day after I left, Garci Tiffany took Neil away and raised for him. Neil started going to preschool where he became best friends with a boy named Ray Royals. For one whole year Ray and Neil never got into any trouble or did anything without each other. They had a strong bond and loved each other very much. They were both very smart and caring. They kept no secrets from each other except for one they didn't want know about. Neil and Ray were brother in laws. They had the same dad, but different moms. One week later Ivan went to go see his child Ray at preschool, while picking up Ray he saw his son playing with Neil, his horrible mistake. Over the years Ivan had been blaming Neil for what happened with his ex-wife Garci. I then grabbed Rays hand and guided my son away, after looking at Neil with distaste. Ray then looked at me with his beautiful blue caring eyes and asked, "Daddy what's wrong?" My feet came to a halt, I kneeled down and smiled at his worried voice. I then replied, "Nothings wrong, just don't be friends with that boy Neil okay?" I continued to speak, "You being friends makes me mad." Ray only being 4 years old nodded, not knowing wrong from right and listened to his father, since he was a good boy. From that day on Ray and Neil stopped being friends and Ray abused and neglected Neil.

As time went on Neil began to grow hatred for Ray. Their special bond was broken of course this emotionally hurt Ray in more ways than one. Ray still bullied Neil up until they were 9 years old that's when Ray realized his mistake. By then it was too late to fix their special friendship or what was left of it. Neil had moved away with an enormous heartbreak, all the way to New York. A few years later rumors were being spread like a wildfire around Merced, about a new transfer from New York with intense black eyes. As the teacher came in the class settled down with curiosity and excitement. A boy with black smooth hair with the most dazzling intense black eyes I ever seen followed behind Ms Pallet. The new kid looked around my height and a bit fragile and feminine. I guess he could feel my gaze, because he turned and looked right at me. Then, he started to look around the class again with a disinterested look. After, the bell rang he started to introduce himself. Usually I wouldn't care, but something drew me to the new kid. Suddenly, his introduction caught me by surprise, and it wasn't just the cute accent. I didn't think I would come back to Merced ever again, today was the first day of school. I followed behind my new teacher Ms. Pallet, as I observed the class. I felt a gaze on me and turned to see the most glamorous blue eyes ever. I realized it was Ray Royals my former best friend. I then continued to examine the classroom. Then, I was told to "introduce myself so I said, "Nice to meet you guys I'm Neil Lunar." It seemed that Ray didn't realize it was me, he had a shocked look on his face. I couldn't blame him I had an accent now and my body plus my facial features had changed extraordinarily. After, class I was bombarded with questions, I could barely even breathe then my seatmate in front of me came to my rescue. He was fairly Sanchez promise to protect and never betray Neil Lunar" I claimed. We had a little laugh out of my confrontation. Ever since then everybody knew Alexzander Sanchez and Neil Lunar were best friends. During P.E, in halls, and during class me and Neil would always be partners. We would both avoid Ray everywhere we went, I could tell he was getting frustrated. For some reason I was really happy on getting revenge on Ray ever since I found out what he did to Neil. After, Alexzander kidnap me I strangely found my self telling him personal information and becoming best friends with him during 5 minutes flat. We had a bond even greater then me and Ray. I found myself slowly healing my broken heart Ray used and piecing it together one at a time thanks to Alexzander. I would not let Ray take this happiness from me, so I have been avoiding him, with Alexzander.

I didn't get why Neil was avoiding me, I just wanted to be best friends again like in the past. Just Neil and Ray hanging out, I Ray Royals was so undeniably frustrated. Every time I get a chance to talk to Neil Mr. Popular always gets in the way, not only that, but he was my replacement. Finally, I had enough of it, after school was over I confronted Alexzander and Neil. I gave Alexzander a little shove and told him to get lost it was between me and Neil. Alexzander shoved me back harder and replied, " Back off Neil is my best friend!! " That statement was the last straw, anger coursed through my veins. I gave one last nasty glare and tackled Alexzander down to the squeaky clean floor, of course he fought back. With a punch so hard to my cheek, it was sure to leave a terrible monstrous bruise. My head pounded like fireworks on the 4th of July. Suddenly, the unexpected happened, Neil tried to break us apart, but while in the process me and Alexzander accidently push Neil down 19 flights of stairs. It was horrifying Neil was on the ground blood gushing out of his head in a bloody red puddle. His eyes were closed and his hair was messed up. We could hear him groaning on the ground in pain it sounded dreadful. After the incident, we hurriedly called 911. Ray, Alexzander, and the ambulance quickly take Neil to the hospital with worry in their eyes. While on the way to the hospital Ray gives Neil aunt Tiffany a phone call, informs her of the disaster that happened to Neil and exclaims, " Meet us at Red Hospital." The medics quickly took Neil into the emergency room. Sorrow filled my heart as I saw a pitiful looking Neil come out of the emergency room on a white bed. Tears were streaming down my face. A doctor then came trailing out after Neil's sleeping body, he then doctor added." Rage filled my veins, I was one of the reasons Neil got so badly injured, it was partly my fault. 2 weeks past Neil was still in a coma, it was Saturday I went to go see Neil. I stopped at the door, hearing the familiar sound of Ray's voice. By the way his voiced cracked I could tell he was crying.

When the doctor informed us of Neil's condition I was shocked, but here I am now. 2 weeks later on a Saturday morning I was a sobbing mess next to Neil's hospital bed. I looked uncivilized, I had untidy hair, with wrinkled cloths, and red puffy eyes. I looked at the sleeping Neil with hope in my eyes and sincerely exclaimed, " Neil I'm so very sorry, even if we can't be best friends anymore we could always just be friends. I was jealous and couldn't stand you neglecting me. I can't stand living without you or you leaving me. We are brother in laws, I found out after you moved. I realized it was a big mistake so please I'll do anything. Just please forgive me!", Ray sobbed.

All my patience went away after Ray's apology, I barged into Neil's room. Then, told him, " You have no right to visit Neil, Ray you caused this." My face was filled with rage and shame when I made that statement. Ray whipped his head to face me so fast out of fury and gave me a horrid glare. He then stood up in anger making a shrieking sound with the gray metal chair he was sitting on. Ray then stared at me and proceeded to walk towards me. He then said my name, " Alexzander!", before I could reply I was forced backwards by a fist on my cheek, I was about to punch Ray back until we heard a gasp. We quickly ran to Neil to see him struggling to get up, me and Ray then smiled at each other.

I felt like I couldn't breath I forced my eyes open and struggled to get up on the hospital bed. The last thing I remember was seeing Alexzander and a boy fight, then I accidentally got pushed of the stairs. The boy kept appearing in my memories, but I couldn't remember who he was or what he looked like. Then I was helped up by Alexzander and an unknown boy. I then asked the boy, " Who are you?" My voice became fearful and my stomach became filled of butterflies. The boy looked at me scared and stated, " Neil don't you remember me?" Realization struck me and I thought, " Maybe I got amnesia from the fall." A young looking doctor then came in and asked me a few questions. he then asked Alexzander and the boy for a word outside.

I couldn't believe it Neil, my brother in law got amnesia and only seemed to forget about the past I made some very bad choices that related to you. I'm begging you to forgive me and I hope we can refresh our friendship.

I then looked at the boy in front of me. I could see the hope in his alluring blue eyes and I could hear how sincerely he was in his tone of voice. I looked at him straight in the eye and said, " I cant forgive you, but we can always start new with a second chance." Then I saw the biggest smile on his face and then he beamed, " Ray Royals a pleasure in meeting you." Then I replied back, "Neil Lunar the pleasure is all mine." Finally, Ray stated, " Hey Neil thanks for the second chance!"

Along the way of Ray's and Neil's second chance and newfound friendship. Things have changed for the better. While Ray and Neil restart there bond Neil slowly starts to gain back his memories and I, Alexzander Sanchez befriends Ray Royals after I gave him the idea to kidnap Neil, the three of us became an unbreakable bond that will hopefully last forever.
